

At Work You Feel That You Should Be At Home; At Home You Feel That You Should Be At Work

This is the curse of many working woman with children, and one that I struggled with until both kids moved out of the house (for the second and third times.)

Here's a heartfelt and interesting post and comments from Penelope Trunk's blog Brazen Careerist. She is frank, funny, and worth the time to read. Her tag line is "Advice at the intersection of work and life."
